

HOW CAN I GET TO THE MONUMENT?

YOU CAN DRIVE THERE! Continue along our main park road which takes you all the way up to the monument parking lot, where you can enjoy the views from your vehicle, or take a short walk up the hill to visit the monument.

YOU CAN WALK THERE! If you would like to walk to the monument, we prefer that you stay off the park roads, especially on weekends. Our roads are narrow and can be difficult to share with vehicles. We have marked out a path that you can pick up at the Lake Marcia Beach parking lot (1.5 miles round trip) or the Monument Trail/Interpretive Center lot (1-mile round trip). These walking paths are a combination of grass and gravel surfaces and include a steep climb at the end and are marked with yellow monument markers. This path is not stroller friendly. If you chose to walk on the road, you must always walk on the left-hand side, facing traffic, and maintain single file when cars are approaching you. The walking path is not yet on our trail maps, but it is shown in yellow here. It is clearly marked so you won't get lost!

YOU CAN HIKE THERE! Hike the 3.5-mile monument loop trail. This red and green blazed trail is moderate to difficult, with many rocky sections and steep climbs. Park at the Monument Trail parking lot adjacent to the Interpretive Center. The trail is not stroller friendly. Don't forget a trail map! Pick one up at the trailhead (as supplies last), the park office, or scan here:
